Classic Cars and Hot Rods [Addon] by Luxru, 7:32am on 11-30-05 Classic Cars and Hot Rods Rating: 5 out of 5 based on 5 votes. A small free addon that displays a list of classic cars and hot rods from the history of the automotive world. It is based on an AutoClass resource file written by Chris Muschler and an automated download of car pictures from a car gallery maintained by David Smith of Old Cars and Hot Rods. This addon is so small that it only takes up two lines of space at the top of your browser window. Current Features: 150+ cars Thin modern browsers supported (IE 6, Firefox, Safari) The addon creates a list of all the cars that it can find, including a small bit of extra information about each car. All cars are categorized into one of the following classes: Classic Cars Classic cars are considered to be older than 1950. Sports Cars Sports cars are considered to be newer than 1950.

Unclassified These cars are not classified as anything. Hot Rods Hot rods are an historic type of car, usually having at least one wide rear fender and a bigger than usual rear tail. The phrase "hot rods" was used to refer to a "low-quality, inexpensive" hot rod or other "improperly built" hot rod; today this term is used as a general term for any hot rod-style car. The add-on has various ways to display the information it contains:

The fish works by using water under pressure to compress the fish. The fish is placed inside a vise which holds the fish in position while it is cooked. There is no need for gills to be cut off. In fact, gills are usually cut off when the fish is cooked in this way. The fish is sometimes sold with its head intact. This makes it more marketable because the head can be eaten and the rest of the fish put into the freezer for later use.

Time Warner Cable and Netflix: The $11 Billion Fight Has Just Begun

Time Warner Cable and Netflix are locked in a multi-billion dollar battle over "net neutrality" that could have a ripple effect on every Internet user. Back in June, Time Warner Cable customers in New York City received two notices informing them that Netflix was throttling their service. Their speeds were quickly reduced from 13.5 mbps to just 1.4 mbps, according to DigitalTrends, which noted that Time Warner Cable has a history of throttling the connection speeds of sites and services like Hulu and Google. While users complained to the FTC about Time Warner Cable's behavior, the companies failed to reach an agreement and the matter was referred to the FCC. "The U.S. government has jurisdiction over net neutrality because communications networks are not common carriers, but rather service providers," Laura Gibson, a law professor at the University of California, Berkeley School of Law, told The Hill. "The Commission issued a statement last year stating that it had jurisdiction over both cable companies and broadband providers because they are also 'information providers' subject to the Communications Act." This raises the possibility that Netflix could be violating a Federal Trade Commission ruling that was designed to protect Internet users from restrictions by Internet service providers. Last week, Google (GOOG) and Verizon (VZ) filed a petition to the FCC arguing that the FCC's rule "is unlawful and therefore cannot be enforced." "We are concerned that the FCC's action will result in unnecessary regulation and will
