Q: how to integrate facebook app in my website? I have developed a java web application. I want to put a facebook app which posts on users wall when he login in to my website. Is there any way to do this? A: The Facebook API is the official way of developing Facebook apps, and the application that you just mentioned is a Facebook application. So, if you want to add an application on your site, your best bet is to use the Facebook API, once you have registered as a developer.

Anyway, if you insist on doing this with the Facebook Website, I suggest you do not use our JavaScript SDK. This SDK is deprecated and may be removed, so you should only use it if you absolutely cannot use our API. The Facebook website SDK is designed for a very narrow use case, and it basically gives you Facebook user's information. It is not really designed for development, as it is quite low-level, so it is very hard to use it in a mobile app for instance. The other alternative is to use our JavaScript SDK, which is designed for all those use cases, so it is much easier to use.

Regarding your application, it is not a Facebook application, but a website, so the Facebook Website SDK is not what you want. I hope this helps you! A: Facebook App is a site with an url, which has been hosted in Facebook's Domain, and it has been approved by Facebook, so you can set it as a facebook link. So, it's similar to a regular website, except that it has some special features: You can detect how many user have liked your site, or other information You can check their current user status by setting the access token You can use Javascript to change how a user looks on your site You can add a like button to your site You may also check this link on how to create a app, it covers all the points for what you want Q: HttpPostedFileBase How can I get content of the file, that is uploaded via the form? I mean for example, if I use text input I can get value via : `$_FILES['fileUpload']['size']` I would like to get the content of
