FIFA 22 will be available for Xbox One and PC on September 27. It was a blistering heatwave in Tokyo last week when Nintendo of America announced that its 2015-2016 fiscal year sales were a record-breaking 1.037 trillion yen ($10.13 billion USD). This far exceeds the company's previous record of $10.13 billion in 2013-2014. Nintendo's fiscal sales report for the 2015-2016 fiscal year (which runs until March 31, 2016) shows that this year's strong sales performance was driven by three of its flagship products: the Nintendo 2DS, the Nintendo 3DS XL, and the New Nintendo 3DS XL. According to the company, total revenue from fiscal year 2015 totaled a record 4.7 trillion yen ($44 billion USD), which was more than 30 percent higher than the previous record of $33.8 billion in fiscal year 2014. Nintendo of America president and COO Reggie Fils-Aime explained that the company's strong performance for the fiscal year was a result of the ongoing value proposition of Nintendo's hardware, as well as impressive year-on-year sales of the Nintendo 2DS, Nintendo 3DS XL, and the New Nintendo 3DS XL. In terms of hardware, he said, "As we expanded the hardware base, such as with the Nintendo 2DS, we saw increased sales of the New Nintendo 3DS XL and 3DS XL, both of which were accompanied by launch titles like Pokémon Sun and Pokémon Moon. In that regard, the launch of Pokémon Sun and Moon as well as the New Nintendo 3DS XL were significant factors. We saw continued strong sales of the Nintendo 2DS as well, which now include Mario Party and Dr. Mario. "Finally, we continue to see growth in sales of both the Nintendo 3DS and Nintendo 3DS XL, with the New Nintendo 3DS and New Nintendo 3DS XL becoming our best-selling hardware platform. As a result, our hardware sales set an all-time record for the fiscal year." As for software, Fils-Aime said that the launch of Monster Hunter Generations and Super Smash Bros. for Wii U led to improved sales of software and amiibo, and emphasized the significance of Super Smash Bros. for Wii U and its amiibo figures. In the 2015-2016 fiscal year, the company had a record-setting 821 million unique users, with sales reaching a record high of
