Q: Autolayout constraint resolution failing I have a subview that I'm trying to place at its intrinsic size and with an opacity of 0.4. I'm setting a constraint to the constant to do this. Everything looks good in the xcode editor, but when I run the app, the subview is cropped. Looking at the images below, you can see that my x positions match and my y positions don't. The rectangles that should be outlined in blue are the actual bounds of the view. XCTAssertEqual(self.previewBottomView.intrinsicContentSize.height, 200.0, "Preview view should fit the total height of the view controller") XCTAssertEqual(self.previewBottomView.top, self.view.safeAreaInsets.top, "Preview view should start at top edge of screen") XCTAssertEqual(self.previewBottomView.top, self.previewBottomView.frame.minY,
