don't have an antivirus program installed on your pc? nod32 is a new antivirus program that you install like a regular application. it automatically detects threats, and then displays details about the threats in an intuitive interface that lets you take action if needed. at the time of this writing, there isn't any real competition in the antivirus marketplace, but it's still a very solid option. nod32 antivirus doesn't share any utilities with nod32 internet security, so there's no choice of additional functions (we're still waiting on an update to nod32 internet security to provide real-time protection), but the nod32 suite is $50 cheaper than an individually-priced antivirus package. no software can detect every possible vulnerability. while some base their testing on static code analysis, others use runtime analysis, and yet others plug into database or even api information to provide a more robust set of potential attack vectors. that's why nod32 relies on threats that it's seen in the wild as well as those submitted by users. users that don't like nod32 may want to try a different program, but that's just their choice. nod32 is well-known for being the world's leading antivirus company. their antivirus antivirus has received many awards. so we are very happy to be the world's first and only antivirus to have antivirus. we have got this software has grown into the world's highest quality antivirus software and antivirus program. in fact, the antivirus software that is already used by more than 90% of pc users around the world, and even a large part of nod32, and we would like to have a long lasting goodwill relationship with your house and the each of you."nod32 protect users not only protect data, but also protect time and effort, and save money for users for your activity is extremely reliable."
